President's Letter

May is a busy time for all of us as we transition to warmer summer months and daily bouts of sunshine. May is also the month that we honor our seniors through acknowledgment of National Older Americans Month and National Elder Law Month.

Following the Great Depression and subsequent wars, it was apparent that social services were severely lacking for one of our most vulnerable populations, our senior citizens. The Social Security Act passed in 1935, but the need remained for additional services for our seniors. In 1963, President Kennedy established May as Senior Citizens Month. On July 14, 1965, President Johnson signed into law the Older Americans Act, which provided social services for seniors to help them live independently in their communities and have access to health care. Additional resources included transportation, nutrition

"I had the pleasure to meet with Jackie Russell for lunch recently. It was so good to know about the articles she has written. Her knowledge of financial needs especially for women are so helpful. programs (“Meals on Wheels”), Aging and Disability Resource Centers (“ADRC’s” like SWIRCA), long-term care ombudsmen (like “VOICES Inc.” locally), elder abuse prevention, and many additional programs and resources. The Older Americans Act also established the Administration on Aging. On July 30, 1965, President Johnson signed Medicare into law which went into effect in 1966. In 1980, President Carter changed the name to Older Americans Month. Congress has continued to reauthorize funding for these programs and each President has annually acknowledged this month since its inception.

The need for legal services focused on the senior citizen population continued to grow and in 1987, The National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys (“NAELA”) was founded. There are chapters in each state and over 4,500 attorney members nationally who practice elder law. There are nearly 20 categories that fall under the elder law umbrella, but each elder law practice has its own niche. Many focus on estate planning, special needs planning, nursing home Medicaid planning, and probate and trust administration.

Please plan to attend our May membership meeting to hear more about various aspects of retirement. Jessica Engel will address financial needs, Carol Havens will discuss planning ahead, and I will address a few elder law hot topics. Guests are also appreciated at our meeting. There is a $25 guest fee due at check in. Please bring at least one potential new member with you.

Respectfully yours,
Lindsay Charles
